350.org is the international citizens' movement working to rapidly transition from the use of dirty and limited fossil fuels to clean and abundant renewable energy in order to stop runaway global warming.

350 parts per million is the maximum level of carbon dioxide (CO2) in the atmosphere to sustain human civilization on Earth. (We are currently at 390 ppm)

Put Omaha on the map! Participate in the "...most widespread day of environmental action in the planet's history." (CNN, 2009) Over 2,700 events in over 150 countries.

We will form with people, bikes, and flags of nearly all the countries in the world a huge "350," which will be photographed and seen around the world.
